
DAILY DILIGENCE

Daily Diligence points are earned by a student during each class period. To earn points, students must show responsibility by working on a specific project or assignment for Mrs. Wehrman's class.

Points will be assessed and earned based on the following methods:

3 POINTS: Student worked diligently on class related work for at least 75% of the provided class time

2 POINTS: Student worked for less than 75% of the class time on class related work, but worked for at least 50% of the class period.

1 POINT: Student worked for less than 50% of the class period on class related work

If a student is absent, the student will be excluded from the diligence points for that day.

DAILY DILIGENCE points are a good indicator of how productive a student is being in class – however – it is not a specific gauge for determining the successful completion or specific score that will be earned on the current project
